TLC is nationally accredited by the Council on Occupational Education (COE), and participates in the Title IV program of the Higher Education Act (HEA) of 1965 of the US Education Department (USED). The company must comply with numerous financial and performance requirements, including meeting certain financial responsibility indicators. TLC is uniquely positioned to deliver innovative technical solutions for a variety of IT related challenges facing the education, healthcare and financial industry.

Capabilities:

The company has the technical resources and expertise to manage and execute projects in the following areas:

- IT Governance and PMO support
- Financial management and monitoring
- Internal control and audit support
- Database requirement analysis, design and development
- Certification, compliance and accreditation support services
- Training services and curriculum development
- Secured Mobile Communication (SecureSMS, SecureVoice) solutions for healthcare, banking and government applications through an agreement with CellTrust Corporation
- Administrative and technical staff augmentation

Why TLC?

TLC offers its services by utilizing trained professionals who are experienced in their field of expertise. We work with our clients to help them achieve their objectives with the application of new and proven technologies. Our philosophy is to offer our customers the best service possible with highest quality and lowest cost of ownership, on time and on budget.

Our company's top two values (our Guiding Principles) are Integrity and Compliance. TLC employs standard operational practices to ensure compliance with all applicable state and Federal rules and regulations. We strive to maximize our customer's satisfaction by utilization of standard processes and procedures across their operations as part of our service offerings. We regularly review these processes for continued improvement in support of our customer's established Key Performance Indicators (KPI) objectives and other business goals.
